Saw Bench

Grizzly R

The swinging table circular saw bench Rosselli allows to cut big quantities of wood avoiding any physical efforts and in extreme safety, in full compliance with the current regulations. The swinging table model features a solid structure antitorsion and high cut depth. In addition to the normal safety equipment, the machine has been enhanced a particular device that allows the saw blade to stop within 10 seconds.

Each model of the Grizzly family has been designed for a continuous and safe use and the two wheels and the carrying handle have made these machines exceptionally transportable. Every swinging table circular saw bench made by Rosselli has a cradle specifically designed to prevent the rotation of the wood and the swinging table inclination can push the wood effortlessly. Trapezoidal belts characterized by high performance and durability allows the movement transmission from the driveshaft to the shaft. The activation device placed on the handle works as well as protection for the hands. The hard frame, built with a robust structure, allows to work in full safety, protecting the operator from the moving parts.
